

SAYS WHO?

Speech Bubbles

Read the speech bubbles given below and match them to the characters of the story in the activity page “Says Who?”

It is only after I hear your case can I decide if I can help you or not

We will cut a cardboard into a 7-inch triangle and punch 3 holes in each of the three ends

Oh! I bought some beads for my niece yesterday that we can use. Let me get it,

Please do come in and sit down and tell me all about your curious case.

Can you pinch the top center of the scarf and push it through the big bead and then tie a knot on top of the bead to make the head?

Now what do we do?

How can this scarf puppet move?

Are you here to interview me for the newspaper?

Better still, write down the set description.

We looked everywhere, but we still could not find them. Without them, we don't have a play to perform.

Oh dear! How can someone so disorganized be such a famous detective?
